

Let's keep our eye on the incinerator problem

Fri Mar 28, 2008

To the editor:

Come on people, we have more things to worry about than a light in downtown Bowmanville.

We have to fight off a chemical-spewing garbage incinerator planned for an area that is already too high in cancer rates.

When my daughter was in Grade 1 or 2 I was asked to participate in a study through the Hospital for Sick Children because our area had a high rate of brain tumours in children. I'm not a scientist but just have to wonder if Darlington Nuclear might be a cause.

Is it a surprise York Region voted for Courtice? Not in their backyard, right?

I have always been more a complainer than a doer in public issues but I will do all I can to make sure we never see this happen.

There are many areas in Ontario with zero population where this could be built and as far as the cost of shipping we pay that now and it would be well worth it to keep it safely away from the public.

I can guarantee there will be so many lawsuits at any sign of sickness around here because these people were well warned of the risks.
