

What's the realistic alternative to incineration?

Mon Mar 31, 2008

To the editor:

I have read many articles and comments about the incinerator project coming to Clarington.

Most comments have been decidedly against the entire proposed project -- everything from the idea to the technology to the site.

What I have not seen or read is a realistic alternative to the waste situation. Not many people can honestly think landfill is an attractive alternative. Zero waste will not be achievable for many years to come, if ever.

When will the naysayers propose anything realistic?
